Our Story:

We chose the students' community partly because we are students. We know their concern and we can solve them better. I had a friend that might take a semester off because she couldn't find someone to take care of her mother during her exam period. We need this now and everyone involved will be benefitted.

Our clients are divided in two main groups:

First, students and their immediate family who choose to outsource their care-giving roles at home when they travel or who want their kids or parents to have company when they are at school or not around for any reason. iCare offers different services, all in the user home environment, including: daily visits, 24-hour care for days or weeks, administration of medications by qualified staff, emergency treatment in case of illness (arranged through doctors). Moreover, the babysitters can take care of the child at their usual or holiday home, help the child with homework, prepare meals, accompany you on the way home to school, and extra-curricular activities.

Second, the service providers such as caregivers, nurses, babysitters, personal assistants and students looking for a part-time job are the other category of clients that leverage this app. These users can create a profile on the app by adding their skills, education, certificates and receive job advertisements based on their capabilities

The image shows a smartphone displaying a service booking application. The screen features a profile section for "Alberto Chiarolla" with a circular photo of a smiling man. Below this, the price is listed as "€ 15.00/Hour" and the rating is "4 Reviews ★ 4.9". A table indicates the service period: "Start" is "14 Dec 2021" and "End" is "29 Dec 2021". A large diagram illustrates the calculation of the total cost: "€ 15 x 100 hours" leads to "€1500.00", which is then reduced by a "Service fee discount" of "€105.00 - €5.00" to a final "Total" of "€1600". A note below the diagram says, "If you have any questions or concern you can write it down here. (Max 120 words)". At the bottom, a message states "You won't be charged yet" and a prominent orange button says "Send request".
